Artist for Nov

Roberta Mallard will demonstrate “Techniques for More Realistic Portraits”

At the Associated Creative Artists (ACA) meeting, Tuesday, November 4th, 7-9pm.

The demonstration will include working with the subject, how to photograph for the best results, color palettes and painting techniques.

Roberta Mallard is a local artist who paints portraits and landscapes in oil.

The ACA meets at First United Lutheran Church, 8202 East Mockingbird Lane, Dallas, TX 75214. For more information call: 917-890-8565.

From the President

What a great show we had last month with Tina Bohlman. She was so informative. She did forget her canvas to paint on but Jane Kahler had just returned from a workshop in Mt Pleasant and she had a spare canvas. So Tina presented her with the demo painting.

It's fall now and so beautiful, I envy the outdoor painters. Perfect weather for them. Then Halloween which I'm ready for, then Thanksgiving and Christmas. And I've decided to do the Christmas party this year at my home since we haven't had a very large attendance at our previous meetings. I think that would save me a lot of work—taking food and so forth to the church. I will put out more info next month about entertainment and food. I have someone who may be interested in being the Awards show chairman. She needs to know someone will help her. She doesn't want to see it disappear from ACA.

You know when a group is 60 years old it means that their members are over 60 years old and we don't have a lot of younger people left to do the work. The paper is not done by me alone, it takes an army to do it. Donna Monroe and Laurie Smith are helping. Please bring snacks for our meeting and support Roberta Mallard. If you have any ideas you want to share with me don't hesitate to call me and let me know. See you at the meeting Tuesday November 4th at 7 p.m. Nena

If you win one of the mini show awards, don't forget to tell the manager of Asel that we appreciate the gift certificates.

First place winner has the opportunity to hang their painting at Artist Showplace for the following month.
